Dear American Legion Post 171,

I would like to take the time to thank all of you for your hard work and devotion to protecting our nation. Serving one's country is one of the most honourable things one can do, and I strive to possess as much integrity as all of you someday. The sacrifices you have all made will not be forgotten by me nor the American people; those who live in freedom remember those who fight to preserve that freedom.

I started this club to get our community's veterans the respect and homage they deserve after hearing the stories of many veterans coming back home. I was in awe of the stories of valor, self-sacrifice, and honor that was widespread across their tales. However, I realized that many veterans returning home badly needed support after going through many trials and tribulations. If the letters written by my club can brighten up a veteran's day, it will make all the difference.

Happy Veteran's Day!

Sincerely,

Edward Kim

Dear Veteran,

Happy Veterans Day! Today is all about you. When we were young, we were always asked to define the word hero. As a kid, I thought a hero had extraordinary powers and fought bad guys. I thought all heroes had exceptional skills and advanced technology. I thought those who did not have those qualities were not considered heroes. As I have grown up and realized those kinds of people do not actually exist, I would define the word hero as something different. I would describe the word hero as someone who sacrifices themselves to keep everyone safe. Someone who is selfless and makes decisions for the greater good. I think those who would do anything to protect the people they love are considered heroes. Without you, the United States would not be where it is today. Thank you for protecting our country and our flag. Thank you for being loyal and giving. Thank you for being brave when others couldn't. Thank you for being an American Hero.

Sincerely,

Annabelle Diep

Dear War Hero,

I nor this country could thank you enough for the work and service you have put in. The happiness that many Americans have now is because of you and what you have done to make this country what it is today. I hope one day everyone in this world appreciates what you have done for us. Last year when I was in my first year of high school, nobody even mentioned the word "Veteran" on the 11th, which struck me hard because nowadays a lot of people may take the work you have put in for granted. I hope it's not the same this year and want you to know that there will always be someone who loves you.

Thank you,

Dear Veteran,

I am writing to thank you for your service to this nation. Because of your service, I know that I am safer every day. Your sacrifice to this country means that we can go to sleep knowing that we won't be harmed overnight.

I hope you know how much you mean to the people of this country and hope you are having a wonderful Veteran's Day this year

Happy Veteran's Day!!
